

Days of Mexican Culture in Leskovac

As part of the event named "Days of Mexican Culture", an exhibition of photographs taken at the time of the Mexican Revolution at the beginning of the last century was opened in Leskovac Cultural Center, and the film called "Memories of a Mexican" was also shown, which talks about the life of a family during the revolution. The event was opened by the Deputy Ambassador of Mexico to Serbia, Jose Umberto Castro. The present guests were also welcomed by the Mayor of Leskovac, Goran Cvetanovic.

As part of the event named "Days of Mexican Culture", an exhibition of photographs taken at the time of the Mexican Revolution at the beginning of the last century was opened in Leskovac Cultural Center, and the film called "Memories of a Mexican" was also shown, which talks about the life of a family during the revolution.

The event was opened by the Deputy Ambassador of Mexico to Serbia, Jose Umberto Castro.

The present guests were also welcomed by the Mayor of Leskovac, Goran Cvetanovic.

He stressed that economic cooperation between the two countries is not on a high level due to distance, but he was glad that it was increasing from year to year. Cultural exchange is also extremely important because it is the first step in establishing closer ties in the fields of education, economy and trade.